Join the EIC Pavilion at SPE Offshore Europe (OE) 2025 to secure a prime stand location, enhanced promotion and visibility as well as access to industry experts through our extensive networking opportunities.

SPE Offshore Europe brings together new and innovative ways to move the upstream industry forward. This is the platform to grow your network, expand your technological knowledge, and boost your brand exposure amongst the offshore energy industry. In joining the EIC Pavilion you will benefit from the bridging of ideas across networks, and gain the skills to keep your business competitive moving into the future.

SPE Offshore Europe is the energy industry's platform for navigating towards a better energy future. This event will create a space for collaboration and learning in order to drive the oil and gas sector forward, bringing together the entire energy value chain back to business, face to face.

Market Intelligence

Europe's upstream oil and gas is at a critical crossroads, with offshore opportunities gaining prominence amid growing energy security concerns and ambitious climate pledges. The market outlook remains robust as operators seek to balance the demand for reliable energy supplies with the urgent need for sustainable practices. Interest in upstream E&P continues to be centred around the North Sea, particularly UK and Norway. It is anticipated that up to 12 upstream projects in the region will reach their final investment decision over the next two years.

As Europe intensifies its focus on energy independence and carbon neutrality, the offshore sector is poised to play a pivotal role, driving both economic growth and environmental stewardship in the coming years.
