Petrol Raccord was acquired by Raccortubi at the end of 2014 in a move to extend and complete the Group's production range. It manufactures butt weld fittings up to 56", almost without wall thickness limitations, and an increasing part of production is dedicated to special/customised fittings. Since the acquisition considerable investments have been made at the plant, particularly in terms of raw material stock, advanced machinery and welding capabilities, to enhance efficiency and cost-effectiveness.
